

COMMUNITY SERVICES REPRESENTATIVES

When a layoff occurs, an individual may be faced with new challenges and wonder where to turn for help. These challenges can include family members who may also be affected by the layoff. Community Service Representatives are a resource of free and confidential information and referral to services available in your area. These representatives offer free assistance to union and non-union workers alike.

For additional information on community services, contact United Way's 211 service. Dial 2-1-1 (24-hour information & referral service).
